Bush stands 'committed' to Tower fight

by Donna Cassata
Associated Press writer

WASHINGTON — President Bush launched a full-court press Tuesday to salvage John Tower's nomination, meeting privately with a dozen swing Democrats and wavering Republicans in hopes of persuading them to back his chosen defense secretary.

"I'm working hard at it," Bush told reporters at a picture-taking session during an afternoon Cabinet meeting. "I'm committed."

The administration's efforts suffered a setback when Republican Sen. Larry Pressler of South Dakota announced he was "very much leaning against" confirmation and urged Tower to withdraw before a vote.

"I think that he may very well be doing him (Bush) a favor in this case," said Pressler, who said he was fearful that Tower would not be capable of cleaning up the Pentagon procurement system if confirmed.

Bush said he did not know whether he could win over senators who have indicated opposition to Tower, saying only that "I hope so."

But with Tower sitting on his left in the Cabinet Room, the president said he had not heard anyone "challenge this man's knowledge and his ability."

"He's the best to do the job that needs to be done," Bush said. "I don't believe that anybody should be pilloried on the basis of unfounded rumor. I've known John Tower a long time, longer than many that are criticizing him out there in various walks of life."

Bush said he thought that Americans had "an innate sense of fair play" about such matters and said he did not think that Tower should be judged on the basis of perceptions about his character.

"So, if somebody has a specific objection, fine," he said. "They have a right to state it."

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater told reporters that there was "no chance whatsoever" of the president withdrawing the nomination.

"We're going to fight it out as far as we can. We've convinced a lot of senators and we hope to convince a lot more," said Fitzwater, who refused to specify what senators had been won over.

High-pressure job

Kirk Dauer, senior finance major, has his blood pressure checked by sophomore nursing major Jennifer Braun. Cindy Dombrosky, sophomore nursing major, records the results from the test. The blood pressure evaluation is free and available on Tuesdays, Wednesdays and Thursdays in the Jerome Library from 6-7 p.m.

Computer registration on path to completion

by Angela Blandina
assistant news editor

University students soon will begin requesting courses for spring 1990 after a successful test run of the new registration system.

Tuesday morning, volunteers at various campus locations, in cooperation with several long distance callers, accessed the $240,000 on-line system using false numbers to determine its capability of handling a large volume of calls from various locations.

Although minor tests still will be performed throughout the week, Registrar Duane Whitmire said the results of Tuesday's test indicate the system — which has 32 telephone lines feeding into it — is operating efficiently.

"The only changes to be made are minor ones — such as a few pieces of vocabulary which make some of the messages too choppy," Whitmire said.

Beginning Monday at 10 a.m., students will be able to access the system using their social security number, a four- or five-digit access code and a push button phone, Susan Pugh, director of registration and scheduling, said.

Although students will be assigned an initial access code — to be distributed with registration materials — she said students are encouraged to create their own number.

Pugh said students will continue to be restricted to 18 credit hours and during the initial phase of course registration, a daily limit will dictate how many times a student can access the system.

According to Pugh, an eight-student advisory committee was established to provide feedback about the system and to assist in determining sites to install phones for off-campus students.

Possible locations for phones include Jerome Library, the University Union, Moore Musical Arts

Train derails in Akron

80 forced to evacuate after second butane spill

by Thomas Sheeran
Associated Press writer

AKRON — An evacuation of 2,000 people during a fiery train derailment ended Tuesday after two days, but at least 80 more had to flee when one of the righted tank cars toppled after the train moved about three miles.

The second derailment of the single tank car carrying butane occurred on the opposite side of the city from Sunday night's derailment.

People in 11 homes and two businesses were ordered to evacuate. At least one additional business closed voluntarily. One of the businesses employs about 40 people.

Seven people were at an evacuation center at First Congregational Church near the city's downtown.

Police cordoned off the neighborhood and two cranes were brought to the site to try to right the tank car, which derailed while being moved at "walking speed," about 3 mph.

Unlike the first derailment, there was no fire or explosion.

No injuries were reported in the second derailment. In the first derailment, 13 people were treated at area hospitals, many of them complaining of sore throats and nausea from the smoke.

Mayor Don Plusquellic said the tank car that derailed was damaged in the initial derailment. He said the cause of neither derailment was known.

He predicted the second, smaller evacuation would end by Tuesday evening if the car could be righted.

The second derailment occurred about 2½ hours after the all-clear was sounded about 6 a.m., allowing about 2,000 people to return to their homes. They were ordered to leave when 21 cars — nine carrying butane — derailed alongside a B.F. Goodrich Co. chemical plant.

The derailment Sunday night caused an explosion. Flames from it could be seen for 15 miles.

Non-traditional enrollment rises

by Barbara A. Weadock
copy editor

University non-traditional student enrollments have reached an all-time high, but the growth over the years has been a slow, steady one.

However, unlike other institutions, the University has not needed to recruit non-traditional students. Other colleges have been trying to offset the nationally declining number of high school graduates — the result of a baby bust, the opposite of a baby boom, Joan Bissland, director of Adult Learning Services and Continuing Education, said.

Bissland said 1,230 non-traditional students were enrolled during the 1989 spring semester.

"Originally, when older students came back (to universities) numbers were kept nationally only on those 25 years or older," she said.

She said she defines non-traditional students as those who do not go to college for a year or more after their graduation.

She began keeping records last year of non-traditional part-time (ages 22-24) and full-time (ages 23-24) students, she said. By keeping

Protesters find little support

by Tracy Richards
staff reporter

An increasing tuition trend over the past few years has caused several student organizations to protest. Yet, they are finding little support in their endeavor.

According to a resolution on student tuition and aid programs created by the Progressive Student Organization, tuition has been increased 28 percent in the last four years.

Errol Lam, PSO advisor, said the increase of tuition affects every student, but especially minority students and those with working-class parents.

"Education is becoming for an elite class only," he said. "American education is not supposed to be like this."

In October, the PSO held a mini-conference where two proposals were drafted to fight the tuition increases. However, student attendance at the conference was low, Lam said.

"We sent copies of our proposals to fight the tuition increase to several organizations and administrators, but received only one reply," he said.

With the Undergraduate Student Government elections this month, the issue of increasing tuition should be discussed on every electoral platform, Tim Peterson, president of USG, said.

However, because students do not protest tuition hikes, the issue may not receive the precedence during the campaign that it should, he said.

"Hopefully, the new student president and vice president will be concerned about the tuition increases," he said. "I don't think this should be something that any one person can take credit for. It must be a continuous effort by all of USG," he said.

USG tries to address the issues students are concerned with and the tuition increase should be one of those issues, he said.

"There are too many majority students that don't feel the pressure of the rising cost on tuition, so they don't take an interest in it," he said.

Active participation by students is the only thing that will correct the situation, according to Peterson.

"I can empathize and sympathize with the issue, but complaining won't help it. It takes an active student — but as far as activism, no one wants to take part in it," he said.

Lam said Eloise Clark, vice president of academic affairs, was the only administrator who formally replied to the PSO.

"I told them in my letter that I would take their resolutions and make sure that people on the various budget committees would read them and take them into consideration," Clark said.

As of yet, the Budget Committee has made no formal reply to the proposals, she said.

"I think the University budget is pretty conservative," she said. "I would hope that students would support it."

Clark said while tuition should be affordable to everyone regardless of class or race, education is accessible to everyone.

"One of the greatest contributions the U.S. has made is the university system on the public level," she said. "Ohio has over 25 community colleges and universities, most of which have very reasonable fees."

Wednesday

According to the National Weather Service at the Toledo Express Airport, today will be partly cloudy with a high in the upper 20s. Increasing cloudiness is expected tonight with a slight chance of flurries, low around 15. Tomorrow, snow is likely with a high of 35-40; chance of snow 60 percent.

News in Brief

Author targets equality

A program aimed at educating the student population on the black struggle for equality will be presented tonight at 7:30 p.m. in 1007 Business Administration building.

"Eyes on the Prize ... Civil Rights, Right Now," will feature Juan Williams, a political reporter for the Washington Post and author of the book "Eyes on the Prize."

Williams will be reading excerpts from his novel and showing video clips depicting the fight for equal rights, Bonita Sanders, adviser of BSU, said. The Black Student Union is sponsoring the program to educate University students "in order for us not to repeat the mistakes in the past and co-exist in the future," she said.

"As a university prepares students for an academic future, Williams' presentation will prepare students for a more realistic future," Sanders said.

Defiance residents protest murderer's home furlough

COLUMBUS (AP) — A man convicted of murder who wants to participate in a home furlough program has upset some Defiance residents, state officials said Monday.

Denise Lee, spokeswoman for the Ohio Department of Rehabilitation and Correction, said that Peter Ankney, a former Defiance resident convicted in the 1980 murder of 15-year-old Jo Marie Castanien, has applied for a home visitation furlough. Under Ohio's Home Furlough Program, inmates with good behavior may apply for a 48-hour home furlough pass every 90 days.

Last year only 85 of Ohio's 26,000 inmates were approved for the program.

There is no guarantee that Ankney would be allowed to return to Defiance to visit a relative's home, she said.

Issue unnoticed

Former President Ronald Reagan had many bad experiences with his cabinet members during his eight-year tenure. The problems which arose from certain individuals presented many obstacles for Reagan to overcome later.

In taking office, President Bush vowed to raise the standards of his nominees to avoid similar hardships. Those standards, however, now may be impossible for anyone to reach.

John Tower, Bush's nominee for secretary of defense, is butting heads with the Senate about allegations surrounding his personal life — both past and present. The former U.S. Senator from Texas has been publicly criticized for his alleged excessive drinking habits and flamboyant social life.

However, the accusations are based on hearsay and have yet to be backed by facts.

Despite their lack of substance, though, the allegations have hurt Tower's chances of assuming his designated role in Bush's cabinet. In a decision announced Thursday, the Senate Armed Services Committee rejected Tower's nomination by a vote of 11-9.

Tower has admitted to being less than perfect. He acknowledges drinking upon occasion. As for his "womanizing," he said he dates because he has been single for three and one-half years.

The main point, however, is that he is being scrutinized about the private facets of his life. What he does on his own time is no one's business but his own — as long as it does not interfere with his job performance.

True, personal issues have become a focal point for examining public figures, as exemplified by the 1988 presidential primaries and campaigns. And while Tower is not the first and will probably not be the last to be criticized for his lifestyle, there are stronger issues to be examined.

In rejecting the Republican's nomination, the Democratic committee members chose to support their decision by citing the drinking claims, rather than a more important issue which has surfaced but has been basically unpublicized.

In 1985, Tower left the Senate to go into private business and accepted nearly $1 million from major weapons manufacturers as a consultant.

This involvement should be the issue at hand when considering appointing him to the position for which he is nominated. The fact that he may be guilty of capitalizing on information gained through his Senate terms seems to pale by comparison the attention given to his lifestyle.

An extensive 140-page FBI report on Tower's dealings with the companies will go before the full Senate today as it considers his nomination. That report — not unconfirmed drinking and womanizing rumors — should be the basis for its decision.

With reservations, we believe the Senate should make Tower the secretary of defense if the FBI report shows Tower was innocent of any wrongdoings. If found to be awry of the law, however, the Senate has the obligation to deny his appointment.

Whatever the Senate's decision, the damage is done. In setting unrealistic standards to avoid Reagan's cabinet problems, Bush has placed any future position nominees on the firing line for excessive scrutiny.

Nitrate comment raises eyebrows

I think Howard Kaltenbach, assistant supervisor at the BG water treatment plant, gave misleading or false information concerning the danger of high nitrate levels in drinking water (Feb. 22).

It is well established that high nitrate levels are dangerous to infants, but not because their digestive systems "cannot handle the nitrates," but because high nitrate levels cause an illness called methaemoglobinemia in which nitrate reduces the oxygen-carrying capacity of the infant's blood.

As for adults, effects of high nitrate levels are not well-studied. It remains to be determined whether high levels are or are not harmful.

Lastly, Kaltenbach states, "even when the nitrate level is high, it does not have any more nitrates than a green salad does." This statement is incorrect, mainly because the vegetables in a salad contain little if any nitrates. Most nitrogen is bound in the form of nutritionally important organic compounds. The point is, the form of nitrogen is critical in determining its toxicity.

In the future, I hope Mr. Kaltenbach will be more cautious in his remarks to the news media.

Reader lauds theater showing

What a thrill it was to watch a movie in an actual movie theater! For those who missed the UAO showing of "Cocktail," you missed a truly invigorating experience. The film was average, but the pleasure of sitting in the nice, comfortable, plush seats of Eva Marie Saint Theater made the picture so much better.

The thought dawned on me that this was the first time I could recall a movie being presented in Eva Marie Saint Theater. Why, I wondered, would UAO continue to show movies in the uncomfortable

Article inaccurate

The article on measles in Tuesday's edition contained an important mistake, stating that vaccinations would be provided for students not immunized before the age of 15 months. The actual recommendation is vaccination for people who were not vaccinated on or after age 12 months.

What we recommend is that every student call home or their family physician and find out the exact date they were vaccinated for measles. We then want to vaccinate three groups: students who were never vaccinated, students who were vaccinated before their first birthday and students who are not sure if, or when, they were vaccinated.

Vaccines will be administered at the Health Service from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. with no appointment needed.

Joshua Kaplan, M.D.

and acoustically bad Math Science Center when a real movie theater rested under its nose?

Apparently, the blame does not lie with UAO. After I saw the UAO presentation of "Die Hard" in the Math Science building, I approached a UAO worker who was cleaning up the lecture room where the movie had been presented. "Why," I asked, "must we students sit in anguish when we watch these films, instead of relaxing and enjoying the movie?"

The UAO member replied, "It's not our fault. The Theatre Department won't allow us to show many, if any, films in Eva Marie Saint for fear the students will destroy the theater." To say the least, I was shocked, as were my friends who had also been present to hear this remark.

Now I can understand the Theatre Department holding back when plays were in progress, but at the time no plays were being presented. Also, a play is shown in one theater; therefore, I see no reason why UAO shouldn't be able to present films in Gish Theater. Although Gish is not the most comfortable place to be, it at least has a screen.

Both Gish Theater and Eva Marie Saint Theater are dedicated to actresses who have appeared in a plethora of motion pictures. Yet, the medium these legends have excelled in is denied presence in their theaters. It is true the "Classic" Film Series is presented in Gish, but only because fewer students attend these films. This is also wrong.

It is very ironic "On the Waterfront," which starred Ms. Saint, was shown in Gish Theater. The film was not presented in the theater named after the star because the Theatre Department does not trust the very same students who pay to see their productions.

Audiences go to a movie to escape reality, but by sitting in Math Science Center, they are stuck in the reality watching a movie.

BGSU should honor veterans

Over the past month or so, commencing on or about January 16th, I have read much about Dr. Martin Luther King, racism and civil rights in The BG News. This news coverage is entirely appropriate and to be expected as January 16 is Dr. King's birthday and February is Black History month, not to mention the paramount importance of these issues throughout the year. However, this media blitz has not only informed me on these important issues, but has also served to remind me of another issue I believe to be just as important to all Americans as those mentioned above — yet this issue receives not even a fraction of the coverage nor observance as the above.

Here at BGSU, the faculty, staff and students are given Jan. 16 off, as they should, so that they might observe Dr. King's birthday and remember and further the civil rights movement that he dedicated his life to the pursuit of. However, on Nov. 11, the day that America has chosen to remember and honor the veterans of its Armed Forces for their selfless service in the defense of liberty as granted by the U.S. Constitution, life goes on as usual at BGSU. Students still attend classes, tests are still given and there are no memorial services held, just as if these veterans never existed. Yet these veterans do exist and in more numbers than one might think.

The Veterans Administration defines a veteran as anyone who has served six months or more of continuous active duty in the Armed Forces of the United States. By that definition there are many students and faculty members at BGSU who are veterans. It is a show of great disrespect to these persons to have business conducted as usual on the day that was created to honor and remember their service.

The thought that an institution, paid for at least in part by the tax dollars of American citizens and the tuition and fees of some veterans themselves, could treat the veterans of the U.S. Armed Forces with such disrespect would have never entered my mind when I first rose my right hand and swore to uphold and defend the Constitution of the United States seven years ago.

Dr. Dale W. Smith outdid himself last Friday night at his planetarium show, "I Paint the Sky."

He took on any questions that his audience asked including, "How big is the universe?"

Just once, I would like to see someone ask him a question that he couldn't answer. After all, Dr. Smith isn't omnipotent, is he?

Summer Job Hunting

Two USG candidates focus on safety, AIDS

by Laura Hardy
staff reporter

While one candidate for Undergraduate Student Government at-large representative has chosen campus safety as her primary focus, another candidate will be focusing on AIDS awareness.

Jennifer Afrates, junior political science and women's studies major, said, if elected, she will work toward getting on-foot campus patrols to improve campus safety.

Citing a recent article in USA Today, she said the University has the second-highest crime rate among Ohio universities.

She said this statistic and the fact that some of her female friends were concerned about walking back on-campus at night convinced her to run for the position.

Afrates Ayers

"(My friends) were walking back (to their residence halls) at 10:30 p.m.," she said. "(10:30) is not an unusual hour to be afraid to walk home."

Despite the existence of the Escort Service, she said, "Most people don't want to bug someone to walk them home."

Another goal is to enlarge the faculty and increase the course selections for those classes in high demand, such as business, she said.

Her student government experience includes serving as the USG organizational representative for the Latino Student Union.

Afrates is also activities chair for Alpha Omicron Pi and assistant pledge master for Omega Phi Alpha. She has formerly held the office of pledge vice president for the service sorority.

Chantel Ayers, senior hearing impairment and developmental handicap major, said if she is elected, one of her major goals will be to increase AIDS awareness on-campus.

Ayers said she believes students make too many assumptions and have many misconceptions about the disease. She said she intends to bring in speakers and organize programs in resi-

Tax filers gain two more days

by Scott R. Whitehead
city editor

Since April 15 falls on a Saturday this year, income tax filers who annually push the deadline will have two extra days to procrastinate.

The 1989 income tax filing deadline is Monday, April 17, at midnight.

To date, the Internal Revenue Service has received about 25 percent of all returns.

Rollie Woods, public relations officer for the Cleveland district of the IRS, said his office — which covers Ohio's 47 northern counties — has received 757,000 of an expected 2.6 million returns.

Last year at the same time, the northern Ohio branch of the IRS had received 776,000 returns. Woods discounted the initial slower return rate.

"Returns may be down 2.5 percent at this time, but it's really much too early to make any conclusions about the filing trends for this year," Woods said.

Locally, the slight decline does not seem to be evident.

Karen Apple, a tax preparer for H & R Block in Bowling Green, 241 S. Main St., said business at this point has been no different from any other year.

"Our business is very, very busy in February. Then it slows down during March and finally there's a mad rush here from April 1 until the 17th," Apple said.

While Woods said that typically half of all individual income tax returns are prepared by a preparation agency, he said the IRS does not necessarily encourage the action.

"It's an individual choice as to whether or not the individual feels he or she is qualified to prepare their own return. If not, they may choose to seek the help of a third party in preparing their tax form," he said.

One misconception the public may have is that hiring a tax agency to prepare a return may alleviate responsibility, he said.

"Nationally, 20 percent of all returns are incorrectly filed. And just because someone used a third party to prepare their form does not mean they are not responsible for any penalties," Woods said.

According to Woods, there are a number of ways to avoid making mistakes when preparing your tax returns — such as getting an early start and double-checking information.

"Personally, I also suggest that when you are finished preparing your return that you put it away in a desk for one night," he added. "Look at it the next day to be sure everything is correct."

IRS planning error delays refunding

by Jennifer Taday
staff reporter

Bowling Green taxpayers and tax filers nationwide will face a delay for their tax refunds because of a computer error, according to an Internal Revenue Service officer.

Rollie Woods, public affairs officer for the Cleveland district of IRS, said the error has been corrected but tax filers who sent their returns in January to the IRS will experience a one-week delay for their refunds.

The reason for the delay was a human computer error, he said. "Inappropriate planning on our part (IRS) was the cause of the error," Woods said.

Professor Neocles Leontis looks on while his research assistant Shanthini Nagarajah works with a DNA synthesizer.

RNA research funded

by Ivan Groger
staff reporter

A University faculty member is using a grant of more than $423,000 to study the structure and function of the ribosomal ribonucleic acid (RNA) molecule.

Neocles Leontis, assistant professor of chemistry, received the grant from the National Institutes of Health to study RNA over a five-year period.

RNA is a class of molecule which serves as a messenger from DNA to ribosomes. From there, ribosomes translate the information in the RNA units to form protein molecules which carry out numerous functions, he said.

William Baxter, associate professor of biology, said the DNA is a master copy of the gene. RNA copies the DNA and then hooks up with ribosomes which allow this combination to produce amino acids, the building blocks of protein.

Ribosomes are small parts of the cell made of protein and non-protein material. Baxter compared ribosomes to a vise on a workbench. Ribosomes hold the materials within their cells, which allow the proteins to be made, he said.

Leontis said it is important to understand how RNA works because it is found in basic biological processes and viruses. As examples, he said RNA can be found in hemoglobin and enzymes, which are proteins used for digestion in the stomach.

According to Leontis, the RNA molecule can form a double helical (spiral) shape and sometimes may contain a loop, which is the main focus of the research.

"The particular focus of the research is to determine how RNA molecules with bulges behave," he said. "There is good reason to believe that many RNAs have bulges and we don't know what their function or structure is."

A bulge in the molecule is an interruption of the double-helix, which places more units of the molecule on one side, he said.

The tool used to examine the RNA structure is called a Nuclear Magnetic Resonance Instrument, he said.

RNA consists of units linked in a chain and come in four different types known as G, C, A and U. In a double-helix, the A and U types pair as well as the G and C types, he said.

"Other combinations are possible and we want to understand the other pairings. Knowing the structures is going to be important in how they (RNA) work," he said.

dence halls and student organizations to address the issue.

Increasing drug and alcohol abuse awareness is another goal, Ayers said.

"Often people who go to parties where there is no drinking, think, 'This is boring,'" Ayers said. "I think many students are too alcohol-centered and this bothers me."

In conjunction with this goal, Ayers said she would like to implement alternative activities for students under the drinking age.

As an at-large representative, Ayers said she will make an effort to attend two residence hall council meetings per month to make herself more available to the students.

Ayers is vice president of service for Alpha Phi Omega, a national service fraternity. She also works as a night guard in Prout Hall and as desk clerk in Conklin Hall as well as being a member of the National Residence Hall Honorary.

Struggle between sexes addressed in discussion

by Dennis Robaugh
copy editor

Problems facing men and women and their relationships with each other were addressed during a forum presented by the Progressive Student Organization Tuesday night.

Errol Lam, adviser to PSO, said in his opening remarks, "Men and women must stop pointing the fingers at each other over their problems."

Facilitating the discussion was Dymna Messer, chair of women's studies, who said men and women need to work together to change the system and the institutions perpetuating the oppression of women.

"I don't think there is any point in making men feel uncomfortable or guilty for being men," she said. "But people think these things are natural because oppression is part of the cultural structure."

"There is a cultural horizon we can't see over," Messer said feminism is a conjugation of gender, class and race struggle and feminists should view gender oppression in terms of race and class struggle also.

Center and the Off-Campus Student Center, Pugh said.

Robin Applebaum, junior English major and committee member, said students should be able to familiarize themselves with the system fairly easily.

"There probably will be some confusion at first, but that happens with the introduction of any new system," she said. "Students will end up having a tremendous advantage though or they wouldn't have gone to all the trouble to bring the system to campus."

Applebaum said she believes one of the biggest advantages of the system is that each department will be provided with student demand statistics to aid in determining how many sections to offer.

Instructions for the system will be printed in the fall schedule of classes, Pugh said.

Messer presented figures from the United Nations showing that 1/2 of the world's population are women, 2/3 of the work hours are women's, 1/10 of the world's pay is women's and 1/100 of the world's property is owned by women.

"The economic disparity is shocking," Messer said. "There is no reason why women should be poor because they bear children."

Messer said some of the dominant ideas of American culture and the economic structure should be changed to alleviate sex oppression.

"Men should be active participants in these changes," she said.

The changes should involve the redistribution of wealth and property, free medical care and free education, she said.

"The feminist version of justice is very similar to socialist principles," she said.

There should be a new way of knowing, thinking, science and history where people regard all people as equals, Messer said.

"That would be a very concrete beginning," she said.

Error

Planners at the IRS failed to recognize the redistribution of tax return areas when preparing the computer program for Indiana taxpayers, he said.

"For the first time ever, Indiana residents are sending their returns to Covington, Kentucky, instead of Memphis, Tennessee," he said.

The problem has since been identified and corrected by the IRS planners and a decision was made by officials to delay the tax returns nationwide for one week, according to Woods.

Karen Apple, tax preparer for H & R Block, 241 S. Main St., said the service has not received any notices concerning the error.

Woods said taxpayers who have yet to prepare their tax forms should expect to wait the normal four to six weeks for their reimbursement.

track of a more defined group of students, Bissland said she can attend to a greater number of their specialized needs.

Some of the specialized needs non-traditional students have are tuition costs, time availability and the effects of returning to school on their families, she said.

One reason people return to college is for career advancement or change, Bissland said. In addition, an increasing number of companies are requiring long-time employees to return for more schooling, she said.

"The largest number of students I see are trying to figure out where they want to go next in regards to their career," Bissland said.

She said the University offers free career counseling to help people considering college evaluate their interests.

"We will talk with people who are trying to decide whether or not to come to college, regardless of the decision they make," she said.

On the average, the non-traditional part-time student makes the decision to work and go to school, Bissland said.

During the time they are in the classroom, non-traditional students can benefit traditional students, according to Bissland.

Non-traditional students interface with the University community and can serve as resources and models for traditional students, she said.

School drug use tapers; 'war not won'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drug use among high school seniors last year dropped to its lowest level since 1975, said an annual survey released Tuesday. Still, more than half of all students use an illegal drug at least once before graduating.

Researchers and health officials said they were particularly encouraged by results showing the second straight significant drop in cocaine use and the beginnings of a retreat in use of the smokeable and highly addictive form of cocaine called crack.

Alcohol is by far the most widely used of the substances, with nearly 64 percent of the seniors reporting that they had had a drink within the previous 30 days. Cigarettes were next with nearly 29 percent having smoked within the previous month and 18 percent reporting they were daily smokers.

Some 16,300 high school seniors from 135 schools nationwide were polled in the survey. Lloyd Johnston, one of the researchers in the study, declined to identify the schools, but he said they included public and private schools across the continental United States.

The survey, which has been conducted by the University of Michigan's Institute for Social Research every year since 1975, found that the proportion of high school seniors who reported having ever used an illegal drug dropped to 53.9 percent in 1988. That's the lowest level recorded since the survey began, when the rate was 55.2 percent.

Cities found liable for civil rights

WASHINGTON (AP) — Local governments may be forced to pay monetary damages to people whose rights are violated by inadequately trained public employees, the Supreme Court ruled Monday in a case from Canton, Ohio.

The justices said in a unanimous decision that cities and towns may be held legally accountable if the inadequate training stemmed from governmental "deliberate indifference."

In an opinion by Justice Byron R. White, the court said the inadequate training also must be closely related to the ultimate injury before local governments can be forced to pay damages.

White said the court was imposing a stringent standard for those filing such suits because any lesser standard would open local governments to "unprecedented liability" and saddle federal courts with "an endless exercise of second-guessing municipal employee-training programs."

Past Supreme Court decisions had made clear that a much-used federal civil rights law could not be used to sue a local government every time one of its employees violated someone's rights. The court previously had ruled that the local government is not liable unless the injury stemmed from some unconstitutional official policy.

But in Monday's ruling, the court for the first time ruled that a local government's valid official policy can be challenged successfully in court—if the policy is subverted by inadequate training.

Joan Jett rocks onto Broadway

NEW YORK (AP) — Rocker Joan Jett on Broadway? Hey, it's a dream come true for the leather-clad singer who received a Grammy nominee for her single "I Hate Myself for Loving You."

"When I was about 11, I was in a drama class and I wanted to grow up and be an actress. I wanted to be on Broadway," Jett told the Daily News on Tuesday. "So in a weird way, I guess that came true."

Jett opens a sold out five-day run at the Lunt-Fontanne Theater Wednesday with the Blackhearts — a band she says epitomizes the true spirit of rock 'n' roll.

"There are a lot of bands out there today that call themselves rock 'n' roll when they really aren't," said Jett. "To me, rock 'n' roll is a very sacred, spontaneous thing — like Chuck Berry, the Rolling Stones, the Who."

Premier's lover generates chaos

ATHENS, Greece (AP) — Premier Andreas Papandreu's daughter says her father's live-in girlfriend has isolated him from his family.

Sofia Papandreu-Katsaneva, 34, told the left-wing daily Eleftherotopia Tuesday that the girlfriend, Dimitra Liani, had ruined her relationship with her father. "I can't believe that everything that's happened has happened with his volition," she said.

Papandreu, 70, has been living with the 34-year-old airline stewardess since he underwent open-heart surgery in September. He has asked for a divorce from his wife of 38 years, Margaret, but they have yet to work out the details.

The Liani affair, his health and several financial scandals have hurt Papandreu's standing among Greek voters, a public opinion poll published Tuesday in the daily Ethnos indicated. The poll showed Papandreu's popularity had slipped to 14.4 percent as compared to 18 percent for the leader of the main conservative opposition New Democracy Party.

Oprah hopes to inspire children

NEW YORK (AP) — Oprah Winfrey, dubbed an "unforgettable woman" in a new cosmetics ad, says she hopes the designation will inspire young blacks.

"As a child, it never occurred to me I might be considered beautiful, because none of the models looked like me," Winfrey said Tuesday in USA Today. "If just one little black girl sees the photo and thinks she's beautiful because she sees a part of herself in me, I will be grateful."

A photo composite by Richard Avedon of the newly slim, leotard-clad talk show host appears in "W" with a dozen more magazines to follow.

Winfrey was chosen because of a beauty that is "heightened by her intelligence and softened by her warmth and good humor," said Revlon Chairman Ronald O. Perleman.

STATE / LOCAL

Republican sponsors tuition plan

COLUMBUS (AP) — Ohioans confronted with the prospect of steady growth in the cost of a college education could prepay their children's tuition at current prices under a bill the Senate approved Tuesday.

The measure, sponsored by Sen. Paul Pfeifer, R-Bucyrus, was sent to the House on a 27-2 vote.

"This bill addresses a problem that every young person in this state is going to face in the future," Pfeifer said. "The nature of the problem is inflation and student fees."

He said tuition and fees at Miami University now amount to $3,000 annually, highest among Ohio's public institutions, or $12,000 over four years. The figure does not include room and board.

Based on historical inflation, he said children born in 1989 would face a four-year tuition bill of $63,000 by the time they are 18.

"If that fact isn't just terrifying to every young family, I don't know what would be," Pfeifer told the Senate.

His bill would create a tuition trust fund from which people could buy tuition credits on a contract basis for a designated beneficiary. A governing board would place the money collected in the same kind of investments now used by the Public Employee Retirement System.

"Your contribution will be based on whatever the highest priced fees are at a state university in the year you make the contribution," Pfeifer said.

Sears ditches 'old sea of yellow'

COLUMBUS (AP) — About 100 high school students worked for $5 an hour Tuesday to help Sears, Roebuck & Co. officials in shirt sleeves and scores of others take inventory, reprice items and redesign a store owned by the nation's largest retailer.

Sears stores throughout the country closed their doors Tuesday so prices could be rolled back on 50,000 items. The 800 stores permanently cut prices on 1.5 billion pieces of merchandise.

"It's the most exciting thing I've ever been involved in in Sears," said Bob Dumas, manager of the Northland Mall store and a 30-year employee of the company.

"It's no longer that old sea of yellow," he said, referring to Sears' old yellow-with-black-lettering sale signs. "Just look at these."

The new signs are in red and blue. In apparel, they are magenta and gray.

The signs tout Sears' new, lower prices.

At the Northland store, 700 workers scrambled to the tune of "Don't Worry, Be Happy," as they marked down items such as a twin canopy bed from $269.99 to $99.00. A Diehard automobile battery is now $64 instead of $72. And a Craftsman power drill is now $32.62 instead of $59.99.

"We're having a party and we're inviting our customers," said Marilyn Stone, manager of the men's department.

Sears' new strategy meant reductions on 75 percent of its own brands and 1,000 other brand names it now carries.

CENTRAL INTELLIGENCE AGENCY

Vital Careers with a Vital Institution

Nowhere is more information about world events collected, analyzed, and managed by more capable people than at CIA. Nowhere else will you find an opportunity to become part of such a dynamic and exceptional team working for our nation's security.

CIA currently has positions for extraordinary individuals interested in a wide range of careers, offering a great diversity of opportunity — opportunities in science and technology, management and administration, high level analysis of information, and the special demands of overseas operations.

Opportunities as Diverse As Your Talents

The intelligence process is a complex cycle, moving from the collection of information to the presentation of informed analyses to our nation's highest policymakers. Each of CIA's four directorates offers a diversity of challenges.

Directorate of Science and Technology (DS&T)

Developing and integrating new technologies, from electro-optics to satellite communications. Collecting and processing information from around the world. Using the most advanced equipment and concepts to provide technical services for national security.

Directorate of Operations (DO)

The Clandestine Service, the vital human element of intelligence collection. Working overseas, recruiting and maintaining intelligence networks and reporting what they find. Courageous individuals with high integrity utilizing their specialized tradecraft to help protect American interests worldwide.

Directorate of Intelligence (DI)

Intelligence Officers analyzing and disseminating vital information from both open and clandestine sources. Focusing their specialized knowledge and experience about political, economic, scientific, and military affairs in reports to the nation's top policymakers about fast-breaking world events and long-term trends.

Directorate of Administration (DA)

Supporting all the other directorates with vital and innovative services in personnel and financial management, communications, computer technology, medicine, security, logistics, and training. Bringing new challenges to career disciplines that may be found elsewhere — but are not the same anywhere else.

The Professional Profile

Special people with a special mission. That describes the men and women entering the CIA's Career Training Program. Applicants must be US citizens with a bachelor's degree or an advanced degree with a strong GPA. A second language, or an ability to learn, is required for some positions. Related experience and military service are pluses. Many applicants must be willing to accept foreign assignments.

Applicants must also measure up to a stringent personal profile requiring honesty and a highly developed sense of personal ethics; superior intellectual and analytical ability, combined with first-rate communications skills, an unquestionable loyalty and desire to serve our country.

All applicants must successfully complete a thorough medical and psychiatric exam, a polygraph interview, and an extensive background investigation.

Special Rewards for Special Individuals

If you have the drive, skills, desire, and integrity, you will be given every opportunity to succeed and excel. In addition to the excellent benefits of a federal government career, you will enjoy the special rewards of making a positive difference in the world — rewards you won't find anywhere else.

Take the first step by sending your resume along with a thoughtful letter. Include day and evening telephone numbers. We will respond to WRITTEN inquiries only, within 30 days to those judged to be of further interest. CIA is an equal opportunity employer and encourages applications from US citizens of all races, creeds, and ethnic backgrounds.

Falcons travel to EMU

by Brian Hollenbeck
sports reporter

With only two regular season games remaining and the Mid-American Conference tournament on the horizon, the men's basketball team needs to shift into fifth gear.

Motivation lies in the fact that the MAC tournament format this season pits the eighth- and ninth-place regular season finishers against one another at 11 a.m. on Friday, March 9. The winner then plays regular season champion Ball State at 9 p.m. on the same day.

The cagers (5-9 in the MAC, 11-14 overall) currently reside in eighth place, one-half game behind Central Michigan (6-9) and one full game behind Eastern Michigan and Western Michigan, which are both 6-8.

BG will try to move up in the standings today when they travel to Ypsilanti, Mich., to tangle with EMU at 8 p.m. in Bowen Fieldhouse. The Falcons will close the season this Saturday when the Toledo Rockets shoot into Anderson Arena.

Assistant Coach Steve Merfeld said the squad cannot afford to look forward to the tournament with two games remaining in the regular season.

"We can't worry about the tournament at all," Merfeld said. "In fact, we definitely feel like we have a realistic chance to finish as high as fifth place."

"We have to take one game at a time and the Eastern Michigan game is the only one we are concerned with right now. After that one, we'll look at the Toledo game and let things fall as they may. We control our own destiny right now and that's good."

BG last met the Hurons on February 1 at Anderson Arena, with EMU prevailing, 70-69. BG trailed by as many as 19 points in the second half of the game, but surged and had a chance to win in the closing seconds — only to fall short. Senior guard Joe Gregory said the Falcons need to get off to a quick start against the Hurons.

"We need to control the tempo and set the stage for the style we're going to play the whole game in the first five minutes," Gregory said. "We need to come out and be more aggressive than them."

The Hurons (14-11 overall and 6-8 in the MAC) are paced by guard tandem Lorenzo Neely (12.5 ppg.) and Howard Chambers (11.6 ppg.). Merfeld said controlling the two guards is the key to the game.

"They are a very guard-oriented type of team," he said. "They like to go inside and then throw the ball back out to Neely and Chambers to shoot the three-point shot."

"They like to run and play six or seven deep so it will be a real challenge for us to go up there and win."

Gregory

Cagers vie for crown

BG seeks to clinch MAC title against Hurons

by Amy Cole
sports reporter

A powerful transition game and exceptional free throw shooting have carried the women's basketball team through the few rough spots they have encountered this season.

The Falcons, who average 80 points per contest and almost 75 percent shooting from the line, which ranks them in the top 10 nationally, hit one of those rough spots against Eastern Michigan early in the Mid-American Conference season. But BG survived the scare and conquered the Hurons by a score of 54-49 in Anderson Arena.

The Falcons, 22-3 overall and 14-0 in the MAC, will be looking to clinch their third-straight MAC title when they face EMU (8-17 overall and 4-10 in the MAC) tonight at 5:45 in Ypsilanti, Mich. BG has won six-straight games in the Hurons' Bowen Fieldhouse and holds a 14-5 edge in the series.

The Falcons, winners of their last 15 games, have already clinched the top seed in the MAC tournament.

"We will have to play a whole lot better than the last time we played them," BG head coach Fran Voll said. "We will have to sharpen up everything we've been doing."

"They handled the boards on us well. We are going to need to be a better rebounding team than the first time we played them."

But for BG, all five starters have been sharp, especially since the close contest against the Hurons.

Jackie Motycka, Angie Bonner, Megan McGuire and Tecca Thompson are averaging in double figures while Paulette Backstrom has been dishing out almost five assists a game.

The Hurons are led by forward Kelly Hebler and center Chris Chandler. Hebler is averaging 16.1 points, while Chandler is producing 11.4 points per contest.

FALCON NOTES: Three members of the women's basketball team were named to the Academic All-MAC teams. Bonner was named to the first team with a 3.39 grade point average in business, while Thompson and Traci Gorman were named honorable mention with a 3.35 GPA in criminal justice and a 3.34 GPA in elementary education, respectively.

Pistons fall to Cavaliers

RICHFIELD, O. (AP) — Larry Nance and Ron Harper each scored 14 points in the second half Tuesday night and Cleveland outscored Detroit 34-17 at the free-throw line to win a meeting of this season's most successful teams, 115-99.

Cleveland, 42-12, won its fifth straight and extended a team record with its 21st straight victory at home. Detroit, 36-16, had a three-game winning streak stopped and fell five games behind the Cavaliers in the Central Division.

Cleveland led 53-48 at half-time. Detroit's Bill Laimbeer opened the third quarter with a 3-pointer, but Mike Sanders' jumper, four straight points from Nance and a fast-break layup by Harper built the Cavaliers' lead to 10.

They widened it to 17 in the third quarter and 18 early in the fourth quarter before a Detroit rally inspired by Isiah Thomas fell short. Thomas scored 17 fourth-quarter points, including two 3-pointers that cut the Cleveland lead to 104-98 with 1:40 to play.

Transfer satisfies Dickman

BG swimmer returns to area after trying Tennessee

by Mike Drabenstott
sports reporter

Rarely does a college athlete transfer entering his senior season.

But Bowling Green swimmer Brian Dickman made such a move, and the results could not have been more beneficial for him or the Falcons.

Dickman, who grew up in nearby Napoleon, has been the Falcons' mainstay in the distance events this season. In only one season, he has set new BG standards in the 500 freestyle (4:39.51) and the 1000 freestyle (9:42.92), while in the process adding experience to the BG squad.

"He is a hard worker," Falcon head coach Brian Gordon said. "He gives a lot back to the team, not only in points, but in leadership and knowledge."

Before coming to BG, Dickman spent three years swimming at Tennessee, where he was heavily recruited after winning the state championship in the 200 freestyle. Yet he was disappointed with his position on the Volunteer team after John Trembly replaced former U.S. Olympic Assistant Coach Ray Bussard and wanted to make a multitude of changes.

Dickman

"(Trembly) brought in swimmers that would have made me nonexistent," Dickman said. "He brought in a couple of Olympians which would have moved me from the number three distance swimmer to number six."

"I knew if I would have stayed that I wouldn't have had the chance to go to the Southeastern Conference meet at the end of the year, which had happened twice already in my three years."

Becoming a Falcon signalled a change in Dickman's career, a change which gave him a new challenge. Because the Mid-American Conference is not as talent-laden as the SEC, Dickman has had more opportunity to make an impact on a meet's outcome.

"When I was at Tennessee I would be swimming in the middle of the pack and racing for one point (for the team) instead of nine," the senior said. "It's easier to swim fast when you're racing for first than when you're swimming for fifth."

His new perspective on swimming, which has evolved from his newly-found winning ways, is readily apparent, also.

"I'm happy for him because he's having a good season," said Larry Vocke, Dickman's coach at Napoleon High School. "He's finishing his career with a fresh attitude and that's a good way for him to close out."

Gordon said Dickman's decision to leave Tennessee showed a strong character and an improving attitude about the sport.

"To give up your final year at a school and come back here, that's a great sacrifice," the Falcon mentor said. "He wanted to get something out of his senior year, and he will leave here feeling good about swimming."

With the MAC Championships beginning Thursday in Ypsilanti, Mich., the senior has one more chance to compete, and like most of the swimmers in the MAC, he said he is looking forward to the meet.

"I feel I will swim well, this being my last meet," Dickman said. "I don't know if I'll win, and I'm not really worried about it as long as I make the times I set for myself."

No matter what those times are, there is little doubt Dickman will strive as hard as possible to reach them. In any event, he said he thought his career was successful, but tedious.

"After 16 years of competitive swimming, I'm looking forward to it finally being over," he said.

Cincy breaks ties with Wilson

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals have decided they have no interest in bringing back Stanley Wilson even if the National Football League does reinstate him from a suspension for cocaine use, Bengals general manager Paul Brown said.

NFL spokesman Joe Browne says the league is still considering Wilson's desire to be reinstated, but the Bengals' Brown says his team would not be interested in Wilson even if the running back is permitted to return to NFL play. Wilson, 27, a former University of Oklahoma star drafted by the Bengals in 1983, was suspended for drug use on the eve of the Jan. 22 Super Bowl, which the Bengals lost to the San Francisco 49ers by 20-16 in Miami.

"Stanley Wilson hurt his teammates and our team and all of us, and we certainly would never have any plans for him again," Brown said Monday.

"We will have no other interest, regardless of what might happen."

The Bengals accepted Wilson back after year-long drug suspensions in 1985 and 1987, and have sponsored some of his tours in drug rehabilitation programs.

Brown said Wilson's talents would have helped the Bengals in Miami's Joe Robbie Stadium, where players later criticized the natural grass surface for being loose and unreliable for footing.

"It hurt us more than people realize," Brown said of Wilson's suspension. "It was a terrible blow. Stanley was the kind of powerful, straight-ahead runner and blocker who wouldn't have been affected by the lousy field we played on that day. He could have helped us a great deal, and there was only about one first down's difference in the outcome of that game."

Landry firing draws apology

IRVING, Texas (AP) — Jimmy Johnson began his career as the new coach of the Dallas Cowboys and successor to Tom Landry Tuesday with an apology.

"I'm sorry if I hurt anyone, I apologize," Johnson said of his presence in Dallas the day before the firing of Landry, the only other coach the NFL team has had in 29 years.

"I was in Dallas to talk face to face with Jerry Jones," Johnson said at a news conference.

"The fact I was seen in public apparently offended some people. I'd like to sit down and visit with Tom sometime about it. We'll do it at a time of his choosing."

Jones, an Arkansas millionaire, bought the team from H.R. "Bum" Bright in a sale announced on Saturday night after Johnson flew home to resign as coach of the Miami Hurricanes.

"Things happened so fast that we didn't mean any disrespect to anybody," Jones said. "I have deep feelings for the Cowboys and Coach Landry."

Hostile questions about Johnson's visit to Dallas before Landry was axed used up almost half of the 50-minute press conference.

Landry was told he had been fired by Jones and club president Tex Schramm on Saturday afternoon at the Hills of Lakeway near Austin.

"It hurts me to say I did something out of disrespect for Tom Landry," Johnson said. "I don't expect to replace someone like him. But just let me do my thing and judge me by what happens later."
